Trip to South India

This was my first trip from school and I enjoyed it very much. It was an exploration of South India. On 17th August, we had lunch and after that we went to the Paliba station by bike, tractor and auto rickshaw. At the station, we waited for the train. When the train arrived, we boarded it and went to Simhachalam and spent the night there. The next day, we visited the temple of Lord Vishnu. In the evening we took another train to Kanyakumari and we spent two days there. We visited the Vivekandanda Rock Memorial and Memorial of Mahatma Gandhi. In the evening, we enjoyed the sea breeze and the sunset view. Then we went to Madurai and visited the Meenakshi Temple and stayed the night in Arvind Eye Hospital. At the temple, I observed the beautiful Dravidian architecture with the beautiful and colourful sculptures of the gods and demigods and the gopurams. The next place that we visited was Rameshwaram and we visited a temple dedicated to Lord Vishnu. Pondicherry was our final destination, where we stayed in the Ashram. We visited the Samadhi of The Mother and Sri Aurobindo and did meditation there. We also went to Auroville to see the Matri Mandir. The trip was for 17 days overall and we came back to Kechla on the 2nd of September and resumed our daily routine.
