Report for 2024-25(Second term)

Introduction

Ansuman is an active 10-year-old boy. He stays in the hostel and has learnt to look after himself. He usually comes to class neat and clean. He comes to the class on time. He sincerely does all his works and homework. In his free time, he loves playing with his friends and sometimes he does his homework.

English Ansuman has improved in reading and can read fluently. However, when reading aloud, he speaks so softly that it is difficult for the group to hear him. He enjoys reading books on his own and is given books such as The Blue Umbrella to read during free time. During group reading, he is attentive and asks about difficult words when he does not understand them. He also helps other children when they struggle with words. He took time to complete Good Grammar for Class 2. If he is interested in finishing his work, he will concentrate, but otherwise, he tends to get distracted. He has a good memory and can remember difficult words. He can understand the stories and answer the questions from the Communicative English book for Class 3. He needs to improve his handwriting, which depends on his mood. He can break down words and write during dictation, and he gets most of his words correct.

Hindi

Anshuman is doing the 3rd Gunjan book. He quickly understands the chapters and starts doing the question answers from the textbook. After doing his work he regularly gets his notebook checked. He has a good handwriting but sometimes gets his notebook messy. If he has any difficulty, then he always asks his teachers till he has not understood. He loves to read storybooks and he also loves to do copywriting. He quickly learnt Varna vichhed (breaking words). He learnt the poem very quickly but was acting foolish as if he has not learnt.

Projects

Ansuman is an intelligent and curious student. He remembers everything that is taught and is always eager to learn new things. He asks lots of thoughtful questions in class. Over the past few months, Ansuman learnt new topics like simple machines and adaptation of animals. He also revised the topics he had learnt before and successfully finished the class 2 and 3 living science books. His reading skills are excellent, and he understands concepts very well. He is able to find answers from the book and write them clearly on his own. Through these lessons, Ansuman learnt new words like simple machine, adaptations, herbivores, carnivores, omnivores, vertebrate, reptiles, amphibians, spiracle, aquatic, pulley, lever. He showed great teamwork and creativity by participating in making charts with his friends.

Maths

Anshuman is a curious and inquisitive child; always eager to ask whatever questions come in his mind. Currently, he is working on a Grade 4 book, diligently going through each lesson with keen interest. While studying, he carefully reads the questions and makes an effort to understand the given information.

While revising, he seemed to have forgotten some basics of fractions. Through discussions and careful thinking, as he talked through the concepts, his memory was refreshed, and he was able to recall what he had learnt before.

He quickly grasped how to read time using analogue clock. He can confidently read the time using quarter past, half past and quarter to. In the calendar concept, he was very eager to learn more about time and how days are formed. He kept asking questions, eager to understand the reason behind the 24-hour day. Through his curiosity and discussions, he discovered that a day is made up of 24 hours because of the Earth's rotation. He showed a clear understanding of leap year, and that it occurs every four years. He learnt that he could easily identify a leap year by dividing the year by 4. Excited by this new knowledge, he started checking different years to see which ones were leap years.

In the measurement concept, he is enthusiastically exploring kilometres, metres and centimetres. He has good estimation skills; he estimates many objects' length which are nearest to his answers. He knows how to use a ruler and measuring tape correctly. He enjoyed measuring the road to determine the distance of a kilometre from one point to another. He gradually developed his calculation skills by learning to convert kilometre to metre and metre to centimetres mentally. At first, he found it challenging, but with practise, he become quicker and more confident.

Art

Anshuman enjoys art class and loves to draw a lot. He learnt to make a house and he learnt to cut-paste flowers which improved his creativity. He also learnt simple ways to draw animals and had fun making it. Anshuman enjoyed making hanging decorations. He loves drawing and continues to improve his artistic skills.

Dance

Anshuman concentrates on his steps when he is dancing. He does not have a flexible body but tries as much as he can do. They are now learning a Nepali dance. Anshuman has improved a lot in the dance steps.

Puzzles

Anshuman has started the 500 pieces' puzzle of Taj Mahal with his friends. He loves to make the borders. After finishing the borders, he helps others. If he does puzzle alone then he quietly sits and fixes the puzzles.

Singing and drama

He is a very bright child and he loves to sing song and when the teacher teaches, some song then he learns very fast and he also sings very loudly. His favorite song is when I get older. In the class he has learnt many songs like fight song, chodo kal ki bate, dekho aayi hai raat Christmas ki and etc. From February he has stated doing social science class and now she is doing the question answer form the freedom book term 2. On every Wednesday he watches English movies with his friends and he enjoys it.

Odia

Ansuman is a very active and cheerful student. He understands lessons well and grasps concepts quickly. His interest in studies is low, but he enjoys listening to Odia stories and watching Odia movies. Ansuman knows half of the Odia varnamala and is still learning the rest. He can read and write words without matras correctly. His pronunciation is good, and he speaks clearly. He has learnt counting in Odia from 1 to 10. With more practise, he will improve further.

Celebration

Trip

Ansuman went on his first trip. He had been longing to go on a trip, so he was very excited. When he sat on the train for the first time, he was so happy that he did not sleep at night. Instead, he kept looking outside, enjoying the view and talking with his friends. Throughout the trip, he behaved properly and listened to his teachers and enjoyed the trip. One of the most exciting moments for him was the sea beach. He was very happy to play in the saline water with his friends. At Nandankanan zoo, Ansuman saw animals for the first time, and he could not believe they were real. At Chilika lake, he was very happy to see dolphins for the first time. He also visited many beautiful places like Jagannath temple, Konark, Lingaraj temple, Kali Jai temple, and ISKCON temple.
