

Jigyasa Dami

DOB- 22nd April'12

Report for 2023-24 (2nd Term)

Mathematics- Jigyasa, who has advanced to the fourth-grade maths curriculum, displays a keen interest in mathematics. While she tackles problems from her textbook, she struggles to identify her mistakes independently, relying on teacher feedback for correction. Jigyasa has a good grasp of fractions, including converting improper fractions into mixed fractions and performing addition and subtraction. However, she finds equivalent fractions challenging but remains determined to improve her understanding and accuracy.

Projects- Jigyasa is a very talkative and active girl who catches on very quickly and asks many questions in class. She made a cycle model with the help of her friends and created drawings of cycles, enjoying the topic greatly. She learned a lot about cycles and their different parts. When asked about the different parts by the teachers, she could show and name them correctly, although some were difficult for her because she had forgotten some of the names. : Jigyasa's curiosity, coupled with her excellent memory, facilitates her rapid understanding of classroom teachings. She actively engages in discussions, posing insightful questions and eagerly absorbing new information. Jigyasa's exploration of the flowers topic expanded her knowledge of various flower types, and she took pleasure in leisurely walks through the garden, observing the diverse array of flowers with fascination.

English- In the English class, Jigyasa maintains a commendable sitting posture and possesses exemplary handwriting. She actively engages in all activities and demonstrates fluency in reading, with a notable reading speed. Regular completion of homework and consistent English communication during class reflect her dedication. Her favourite book, "Magic Porridge Pot," aligns with her enthusiasm for English literature. Currently studying grammar from Book Two, she recently participated in a play on the Mother's birthday, assuming the role of narrator. Although she faced challenges with certain pronunciations, she managed to overcome them swiftly.

Hindi- Jigyasa has successfully completed exercises from the "Abhyaas Pustika" and "Gyan Sarover" and is nearing completion of the 2nd-grade material in "Gunjan." Engaging in basic grammar studies, she actively seeks clarification from the teacher and demonstrates commendable independent learning skills. Although she encounters difficulties in writing stories independently, her storytelling abilities are commendable. Jigyasa's reading and speaking skills have notably improved, although she occasionally struggles with certain words. Notably, she composed a story titled "Sri Maa and the Children" for the Mother's birthday celebrations.

Odia- Jigyasa has shown significant improvement. Her understanding is good, and she has worked on improving her speaking skills. Her fundamentals are clear, and she enjoys learning Odia songs, stories, and games. Her handwriting is good, and her words are clear. She can count up 20 and has clear alphabets. She likes children's Odia movies and can form words from individual letters.

Arts and crafts- Jigyasa displays a keen interest in both drawing and craftwork. Despite encountering minor difficulties in
