Indian Classical Literature:

In this course, I have read mythological stories about Shakuntala, Mahabharat, Kanaki, and Malati, etc. I have completed this course with the assistance of Pranjal Bhaiya, and now I am self-studying it in preparation for exams.

Celebrations

I have celebrated many festivals, such as Raksha Bandhan, Independence Day, Ganesh Chaturthi, and Janmashtami. I tied rakhi to my brothers, and during Ganesh Chaturthi, a big statue was made at school, and I enjoyed being a part of the celebration. On Independence Day, I participated in a drama and played the role of a narrator. I had memorized my dialogue very well, and I also helped with crop-related activities.

Shramdaan

Every day at 6:30 AM, I engage in Shramdaan for one hour, and I find it enjoyable. I participate in various activities, including toilet cleaning, hostel cleaning, school cleaning, and gardening.

Games

I play minor games and basketball, even though I am not particularly skilled at them. However, I enjoy playing.

Volunteering

I am currently studying and also volunteering to teach young children. I volunteer for three hours and teach math to students in the fifth, fourth, third, and second grades. While I am comfortable with teaching, I sometimes question if I am conveying the correct information. I explain the material again if a child struggles to understand anything. I genuinely enjoy teaching; it's a choice I have made.
