Academic:

I am a 17-year-old girl, currently in my first year of graduation. I am pursuing a B.Sc. degree in Botany, Zoology and Geology. I would be appearing in my first year exams in the coming June. Alongside my studies, I also assist in the school. Additionally, I have online classes with Shailja didi who teaches me Botany and Zoology. I also engage in volunteering activities.

Volunteering: I conduct three classes a day. Firstly, I teach science to the children of the Gratitude and Progress group. Then, I teach the science class for the Perseverance group. Finally, I lead the project class for the Victory group. I thoroughly enjoy engaging in activities with the children and teaching them. It not only brings me joy but also allows me to learn new things.

Shramdaan: At 6:30 in the morning, I participate in Shramdaan, where I assist the children and engage in tasks myself. Prior to Shramdaan, I practice yogasana, which helps me feel fresh and active in the morning.

Celebrations: During the past month, I participated in various celebrations. I performed a welcome dance with other children. Additionally, I took part in a freedom movement play for Tara didi, where I played the role of the narrator. On 25th March, I celebrated Holi and spent the day serving boulders.

Trip to North-East India

This was an enjoyable trip. On the 29th of October, we started our trip to the Northeast. The first place I visited was Kolkata. There, I went to see the Alipore Zoo. Then, I travelled to Guwahati where, on the first day, I visited the museum and the Kamakhya Temple. I also visited the Mahavir Temple, Agnigarh, and Ganesh Ghat. From there, we headed to Tawang. We spent one night in Rupa before reaching Tawang.

In Tawang, I visited the Indo-China border, which I enjoyed the most. Then, I went to Sela Pass. Afterward, I returned to Rupa and travelled to Kaziranga. I went on a jeep safari with my friend to see the animals in Kaziranga National Park and enjoyed it a lot. Then, I visited Shillong to see the Elephant Falls. After that, I returned to Guwahati. From there, I went to Sikkim where I visited the Mawmai Cave and the Seven Sister Falls. After that, we returned to Kolkata where I visited Science City and enjoyed it very much. I also visited the Sri Aurobindo Bhavan, which was his birthplace. Finally, on the 17th of November, we returned to Kechla.

I thoroughly enjoyed this trip, as I got to see many new places and learnt about them. It was a beautiful experience.
