INTRODUCTION

Harshit is an adorable 5-year-old boy who endeavours to attend school regularly. He enjoys playing with his friends and is particularly fond of playing with toys and cars. His interactions with others are positive, and he responds when someone asks him a question. Harshit takes care to come to school neatly dressed and clean. He exhibits a healthy appetite and doesn't waste any food. While eating, he refrains from talking much, preferring to finish quickly so he can play in the sandpit with his friends, as they all go home together after lunch.

CHANTING AND SINGING

During chanting sessions, Harshit sits attentively with closed eyes and recites mantras loudly and clearly. While he may have difficulty pronouncing some of the more complex words in the mantras, he enjoys singing songs with his friends and participating in actions that accompany the songs. He sings the words he knows with enthusiasm, raising his voice, but lowers his voice for words he's less familiar with.

MATHEMATICS

Harshit prefers to sit near the teacher during math classes and actively participates when asked questions.

Occasionally, he gets distracted by other children and engages in conversations with them. He has learned to count up to 30 and enjoys practicing counting with various objects. He also engages in other math activities and likes collecting stones, leaves, sticks, and more. He enjoys creating patterns with these objects and performing addition and subtraction exercises.

PROJECTS

In project classes, Harshit has successfully completed two topics: "vegetables" and "fruits." He confidently identifies and names various fruits and vegetables. He can recognize them with accuracy. Occasionally, he may become confused when distinguishing between some items during the project. He relished making puppets and models of fruits and vegetables and particularly enjoyed tasting the various items. During his presentations, he portrayed the character of a potato. Although he felt nervous during the performance, he made a commendable effort to convey the details accurately.
