Report for 2023-24 (First Term)

Introduction

Ankush is a regular child. He comes to school on time. Sometimes he arrives before the time and likes to have breakfast in the school hostel. He comes in a neat and clean manner. He learned how to use the toilet and clean himself after using the toilet. He was very choosy about eating vegetables, but now he started to eat all vegetables.

Circle Time

In circle time, he sits nicely with his eyes open and does all the chantings loudly. His voice is clear, and he remembers all the chantings taught in the group. He likes to sing animal songs with funny actions.

Languages

Hindi

Ankush likes to listen to stories from big picture books. He likes to sing songs in a loud voice with actions. He enjoys doing the funny actions of animal songs. During story-telling time, he listens to the story very carefully, can understand the full story, and can answer after finishing the story. He tells the answer in words. After listening to the story, he can retell the same story in a few lines. He also likes to draw pictures of his own thoughts and create creative stories. He always likes to draw vehicles and tells his creative stories very briefly. In the topic of body parts, he did the painting and drawing of his body parts and explained how his body parts help him. He helped create a creative song about body parts in group activities. In the "My Family" topic, he went for a walk to his friend's family, drew a picture of his family, and provided 6-7 lines about his family.

English

Ankush joined the school from April and he is a very curious child. He is very cheerful and is an enthusiastic child who enjoys school. He likes to talk with his friends in the class. He loves sharing his personal experiences with his friends. He likes to participate in any new activities done but when he is told to do then he is a bit shy in front of everybody. He likes making friends in his group. He enjoys singing rhymes with his friends in the group with action. He loves listening to stories from the picture books and through puppets. Whenever any question is asked after the stories told, he raises his hands to answer. He listens to stories like 'thirsty crow' and afterwards he draws the same picture and then speaks the story by himself through the picture and didi writes it on the paper. In the topic 'My Body', he learnt the external names of body parts through a chart paper and by showing his own body parts.

In the topic on 'Myself', he learnt how to speak his own name in full sentences, his age, his favourite colours, fruits, etc. his school's name and group's name. He made a book out of these and at the end spoke some lines with the help of the book he made.

In the topic my family, he learnt his parents' name, their occupation and how many members are there in his family. He enjoyed learning about his family and also learnt a song on 'My Family'.

Mathematics

Ankush is excited to learn outside the group and play with the method. When learning pre-number concepts, he enjoys collecting flowers, leaves, sticks, and stones from nature and remembers vocabulary such as long-short, big-small, biggest, smallest, and counting small numbers. Through ordering and seriation, he learned the names of colours and created different patterns in rangometri, judo cube, and other objects.

He learned numbers by playing indoor and outdoor games and counting objects. Now he can do forward counting in ganitmala, and while doing backward counting, he takes a little time with transitional numbers. He learned after and before numbers up to 20. Sometimes he gets confused with the words "after" and "before." He can represent the numbers in ganitmala and can recognize the numbers in ganitmala without touching the beads. He can do skip counting of 2 and addition with small numbers using objects. He likes to answer in group activities.

Skill work

Ankush actively participates in all art class activities, aiming to finish them quickly and assist others. He enjoys drawing trees, animals, and forests, taking care to keep the workspace clean. He is proficient in paper folding and sometimes makes paper balls.

Celebrations

He participated in various school celebrations, including stage performances and making crafts. On July 5th, he performed in a melodrama about body parts with the group. It was his first stage program, so he got nervous and only stood on stage. On August 15th, he danced with his group to the song "Sri Aurobindo Name Ananda." On August 30th, he made rakhi with beads and celebrated in school. On September 6th, he performed a dance to "Adharam Madhuram" with the group. On September 19th, he performed a dance to "My Friend Ganesha" with the group.

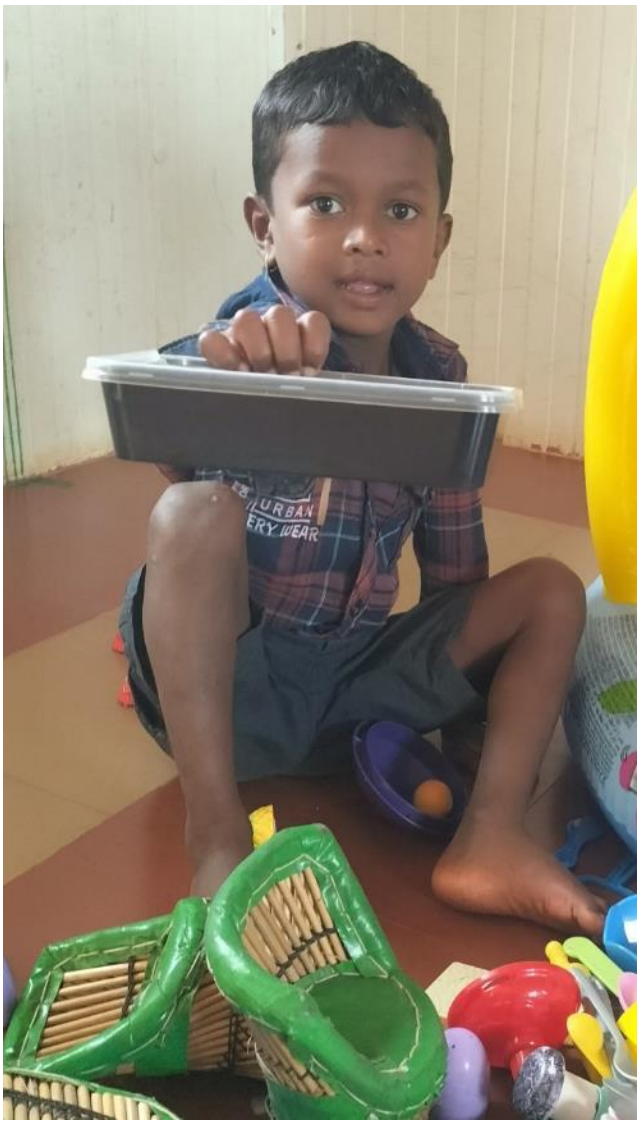
Games


Ankush is excellent in sports and very attentive in class. He loves playing games and listens attentively to instructions. He's known for his friendly nature, always engaging with others. His favourite games include "doctor-doctor," "back-to-back," and "fire on the mountain," among others.
